

RAVA STAINLESS STEEL COUNTERTOP WASHBASINS

RAVA washbasins: the elegance of sustainable design for public spaces by DELABIE | DVS

Sustainable design

Easy to clean

Large and comfortable washing area

The new RAVA countertop washbasin by DELABIE | DVS, available in a polished satin or matte black Teflon® finish, meets the most demanding expectations: a product that is both stylish and robust, that integrates easily into any type of environment. Its precise geometry, meticulous finishes, and premium materials make it an ideal solution for high-footfall areas without compromising on aesthetics.

Technical design at the service of the product

The RAVA washbasin is pressed from a single piece of bacteriosatic 304 stainless steel, without any visible seams. This technical mastery ensures the bowl's lines are perfectly uniform, avoiding any visual breaks.

The washbasin is semi-recessed, designed to be installed on a countertop. It is compatible with wall-mounted or tall mixers and taps, adapting to the various configurations of new-build or refurbishment projects. With a diameter of 420mm, it offers a large and comfortable washing area.

A long-term staple in hospitals and professional kitchens, stainless steel is essential for hygiene because it is bacteriostatic. The smooth surface of this sink limits bacterial growth and facilitates cleaning.

It meets the strict hygiene demands of buildings open to the public.

One washbasin, two available finishes

Designed for contemporary washrooms, the RAVA washbasin integrates seamlessly into hotels, restaurants, cultural venues, and offices.

The RAVA washbasin is available in two complementary finishes. The polished satin stainless steel version highlights the raw material. Its metallic hue blends easily with natural materials (wood, stone, concrete), industrial settings, and all colour schemes.

The matte black stainless steel version, with a Teflon® coating, offers a more striking aesthetic. This deep, perfectly uniform black absorbs light to create a strong contrast in bright environments or to emphasise the sophistication of dark spaces.

The RAVA washbasin integrates seamlessly into any installation, regardless of the washroom configuration.

A sustainable approach, designed to last

The choice of stainless steel gives DELABIE's sanitary ware exceptional robustness. Designed to last, our products ensure the longevity of designers' projects, while minimising maintenance and avoiding premature replacement.

The recyclability of stainless steel aligns with responsible construction practices, consistent with DELABIE's CSR commitments and the market's growing expectations for sustainability.

Designed for easy installation, a long lifespan, and perfect visual consistency, the RAVA washbasin expands design possibilities in public washrooms.
